Room information for this update

It would behoove us to visit, even for 30 minutes, on the additional research on new T&E species not considered at the time of the NRC Final SEIS. Jim Hanley would summarize the potential for the UIC permitting action to affect these protected species and their critical habitat to the extent it occurs in the cumulative effects analysis area.

Expected draft products:

Draft informal FWS consultation template filled with DB permit-specific information (draft would still have some missing pieces, i.e. new potential for effects and proposed mitigation)

List of documents reviewed forming the basis for the administrative record on ultimate ESA compliance demonstration

Focus or needed outcome: Best professional judgment on whether the future work on the additional T&E species will cause major delay to DB permit project schedule.
